Claude Elliott

When Claude graduated from Memorial University in 1976 with a Commerce Degree, he joined Newfoundland Telephone as a product manager in the Marketing Department. In 1978 Claude moved to Ottawa for an assignment with the Trans Canada Telephone System (Telecom Canada) and worked in a Business Development role for new data services in the Computer Communications Group (CCG). In 1982 Claude joined Bell Canada as a Product Manager for data services. In 1988, he took an assignment as a Network Consultant for Bell Canada International in the United Kingdom. Upon his return to Bell Canada, he moved to a business development role for new data services. He continued in this role in the Stentor Organization.

Claude returned to Bell and moved to Industry Marketing supporting the Bell sales team for the Government of Canada. Claude moved to Bell Nexxia and continued with the Industry Marketing role and took on a sales position for the sale of Bell legacy services to the Government of Canada. Claude continued in sales for Government of Canada accounts until he retired in 2011.

Since retiring Claude has become a regular volunteer with Habitat for Humanity Greater Ottawa (GO). He has worked on more than 20 Habitat Builds in the Ottawa Area and has served on and chaired the Habitat GO Build Committee. He also participated on a Habitat Global Village Build on the First Nations Community of Champagne and Aishihik in the Yukon. Claude and his wife, Ann are enjoying retirement and keeping up with daughter in Kingston and son in Stratford.

Claude was a member of the BPG Pension Committee, until taking on the role of Ottawa BPG Chapter Chair.
